

Speaker Biography Patrick O'Reilly

Patrick O'Reilly is Founder and President of Padraig Coaching & Consulting Inc., certified in executive coaching and specialized in helping leaders of people excel in their roles and dive into new roles.

As a sought-after Executive Coach, founder of an international coaching firm and a TEDx speaker, Patrick has risen to prominence helping leaders of people to better lead their teams to greatness. What sets him apart is his lived experience. As a former CEO who rose through the executive ranks learning on the fly to lead people, Patrick has lived the life of your attendees. He sees the world through their eyes. He has had enormous wins and has made the mistakes they're trying to avoid.

Formerly CEO of the Canadian Museum for Human Rights and senior executive for many years before that, Patrick has spoken to diverse audiences ranging from a small mastermind group of executives to packed convention centres, from hard working front-line service people, to heads of government and even royalty. Patrick's experience has seen him presenting from coast to coast in Canada and around the world from Iceland to Australia, Ghana to China, with stops along the way as diverse as the 2010 Olympic Winter Games and a triennial global gathering of ICOM, the United Nation's International Council of Museums.

As a member of the Canadian Association of Professional Speakers and the International Coach Federation, Patrick brings exceptional speaking skills and his own experience to engage audiences in picturing themselves in his presentation, helping them to firmly anchor what they've learned, to be able to apply it when they return to the office.
